2. Where We Get Your Personal Information From

We collect the personal information directly from you as part of our client on-boarding process. Additionally, we collect personal information from you when you correspond with us (whether by telephone, e-mail, or through the Asande Group Website). The nature of our relationship with you will determine the kind of personal information we might ask for.

Sometimes we collect additional information about you from third parties. Specifically, we will obtain information about you from:

- A public record or a record that has deliberately been made public by you
- Agencies who we use to monitor and prevent money-laundering

3. How We Use Your Personal Information and Why

We mainly use the personal information we hold about you where it is necessary for us to perform our mandate with you and/or to enable us to comply with legal obligations. Your personal information will also be used when it is in our legitimate interest. A legitimate interest is when we, and sometimes third parties have a business or commercial reason to use your information. But even then, our legitimate interest must not unfairly prejudice what is right and best for you.

3.1. The use of your personal information for us to perform our mandate with you:

- to communicate with you about your investment(s), product or service (i.e. periodic statements), to verify that your instructions are genuine and to process them accordingly;
- to investigate and deal with complaints or disputes; and
- to share your personal information with third parties, such as our service providers who assists us administer or process transactions if required for the management of your product or service.

3.2. The use of your personal information to comply with legal obligations:

- to verify your identity and to carry out regulatory checks, such as anti-money laundering checks
- to detect, prevent and/or investigate fraud, money laundering and other financial crime
- to comply with audit requests from our compliance officer
- when, to achieve the above purposes, we share your personal information with the following categories of individuals or organisations:

- law enforcement agencies and governmental and regulatory bodies such as tax authorities, financial regulators/ombudsmen and non-financial regulators (depending on the circumstances of the sharing); and/or
- courts and to other organisations where it is necessary for the administration of justice, to protect vital interests and to protect the security or integrity of our business operations.

3.3. The Use of Your Personal Information To Pursue Our Legitimate Interests:

- to comply with our legal and regulatory requirements, your tax residency and/or nationality;
- for anti-money laundering purposes;
- for regulatory compliance purposes relevant to specific products or services;
- to contact you when we have updated this Privacy Notice and consider that it is necessary to advise you about any changes to the way we are processing your personal information;
- when, to achieve the above purposes, we share your personal information with the following categories of individuals or organisations:
 - members of our Group;
 - our legal and other professional advisors and compliance officer;
 - governmental and regulatory bodies such as tax authorities, financial regulators/ombudsmen and non-financial regulators;
 - tax authorities who are overseas for instance if you are subject to tax in a different jurisdiction, we may share your personal information directly with relevant tax authorities (instead of through the local authority);

Should you have any questions about the above listed categories of people or organizations, including third parties we share your personal information with, please contact us using the contact information provided in this Privacy Notice.

3.4. Use of Your Personal Information with Your Consent

We rely on your consent to use your personal information. We will rely on your consent for:

- when you request that we share your personal information with someone else and consent to that;
- where you have opted-in to receiving marketing communications and have not subsequently opted-out or requested to be removed from any marketing list; and

- when you volunteer information to us in correspondence, which information we need in order to respond to your enquiry, and only where lawful to do so.

You have the right to withdraw your consent at any time in writing. Please note, if you do withdraw your consent, this will mean that we will stop similar future processing. However, the withdrawal of your consent will not invalidate any processing which we previously undertook before you withdrew your consent.

Please note that, where we rely on another lawful reason to process your personal information which does not require your consent, withdrawing your consent will not affect that processing. This is the case where the processing is necessary for our performing our contract with you, or where we must process your personal information to comply with law, as described above. We will continue to process your personal information for those lawful purposes notwithstanding the fact that you have withdrawn your consent for one of the above listed purposes that requires your consent.

3.5. Whether You Have to Provide Personal Information

If you want to use our services, there is some information which you will be required to provide to us either because of legal requirements, or because we need that information to provide our services to you.

We will tell you when the personal information requested is mandatory, or if it is voluntary. If you do not provide that personal information that is mandatory, we will be unable to properly provide you with the services and/or perform all obligations under our agreement with you. Where you choose not to provide us voluntary personal information this may reduce the quality of service we are able to provide.

3.6. Sharing Your Personal Information with Others

Your personal information will be shared with other businesses, regulators and authorities.

If you have further questions about the third parties we share your personal information with, please contact us using the details in Part B.

We will never sell, rent or trade your personal information.

We will share your information with others who have a duty to keep it secure and confidential, and where we have a lawful reason for doing so, as explained above.

We cannot control all use of your information by third parties, especially where they are not our service providers and under contract with us. As such, where your personal information has been shared with another data controller entity, you will have rights over how that third party handles your personal information and you can and should contact those parties directly if you want to exercise your rights in relation to those third party's uses of your personal information.

3.7. How Long We Will Keep Your Information

Your information may be held for a considerable period after our relationship ends or indefinitely if anonymised. If you have further questions about our data retention practices, please contact us using the details in Part B.

We are required to collect and keep personal information in terms of the following laws:
